

Disclaimer

The information on this site, www.jurislogium.com, does not constitute legal advice. You should not act upon this material until you have consulted with professional legal counsel.

The website is intended to provide general information only. It is distributed with the understanding that Juris Logium is not engaged in rendering legal or other professional advice or services in providing this information. Use of this information does not create an attorney-client relationship with Juris Logium nor does it substitute for the provision of legal advice. This information and any communications transmitted hereby do not constitute legal advice and do not create an attorney-client relationship.

We cannot represent you until you are a client of the firm. This includes our making a determination that representation of you will not create a conflict of interest or will not otherwise be contrary to firm practice and procedure. Therefore, please do not send any information to us until you have been interviewed by one of our attorneys and you are sent an engagement letter.

Unless you are already a client of the firm, any information you provide, through postal mail, email or telephone communication, is not treated as confidential and is not protected by attorney-client privilege.

If you have paid any fee to us for a case in past and now you are engaging us for a new case then the past fee shall not be treated as a fee for the new case. Results are dependent on the facts of each individual case and as such the results of every service we provide may vary from case to case.

We do not give the guarantee of success in your legal problem and we do not ensure that you will succeed by all ways if you engage us. We ensure that we shall provide the best possible services.